Akisa is beaten by someone.

(b) The active voice can only change into passive if the active form of the sentence has both a subject and an object e.g Kato eats a lot. Such a sentence cannot change into passive.

Ref: MK Precise English Gram Pg 92 – 98.

LESSON 3.

Structural Patterns.

The use ofso.....that

This is an adverbial degree : It shows the extent or degree at which some thing creates an effect. Between 'so' and 'that' there is another word or phrase.

Examples.

(a) Jowash was a rich man. He bought a large piece of land.

-Jowash was so rich that he bought a large piece of land.

(b) Kamoga is very sick. He needs a doctor now.

-Kamoga is so sick that he needs a doctor now.

- Repetition of the noun should be avoided e.g Okello is so tall that Okello can touch the ceiling.

- Avoid using other modifiers like; very, quite, rather with this pattern (so...that....)

- This structural pattern is used in both affirmative (positive) and negative sentences.

E.g

(a) Musoke is so tall that he can touch the ceiling. (affirmative)

(b) Dikuula is so fat that he can't pass through the small gate. (Negative)
